“The weekend was a great opportunity to talk about our values and our future together. For us the weekend reaffirmed that we are heading down the right road. It was a great chance to talk without pressure and to resolve some issues.”

Pam

“As an atheist I was concerned about what would happen, but as soon as the talks started I was overwhelmingly glad to be here. I think EE provides an excellent coverage of what many people do not realize – relationships need work, skills (especially communication and forgiveness) and tools. I think everyone who is involved in a serious long-term relationship should be here.
